

World Keeps Calling Me Back

I hear the voice of seducing lies forsake this gift of eternal life
True happiness you'll only find
In these pleasure filled pictures running through your mind
But they don't know what I've learned my past is like a stove that burns
So I keep my hands away and reach instead for a better way

Though the world keeps calling me back to where I was before
I've got something much better than that walking with the lord
While the world keeps chasing a rainbow that always seems to disappear
I've got a treasure in my heart that will grow
So much greater through each passing year
And forever.... yes forever

The battle's on it intensifies the closer that I get to Christ
The enemy he does his best to tempt me with illusions of happiness
Even my friends bound to the earth can't comprehend what heaven's worth
And so they strive for earthly gain and wonder why I just won't do the same

Well the world keeps calling me back to where I was before
But I've got something much better than that walking with the lord
While the world keeps chasing a rainbow that always seems to disappear
I've got a treasure in my heart that will grow
So much greater through each passing year
And forever.... yes forever

So I'm pressing on I'm pressing on I'm pressing on I'm pressing on I'm pressing on I'm pressing on until this mess is gone I'll be pressing on

The world keeps calling me back
The world keeps calling me back
The world keeps calling me back
