

God Only Knows

Once I was young and bold stubborn pride ruled my heart
I thought the world was ripe for me to go and make my mark
I was the captain of my fate until I lost my way in the dark now

God only knows where the path is leading
Through these unfamiliar scenes all along the way
God only knows how I've come to need him
As He carries me each step that I make today

And what the future may propose God only knows

We make our best laid plans and strive to set our course
As if life bends it's knees to the choices we endorse

But it's a foolish man who schemes beyond tomorrow's door for

God only knows where the path is leading
Through these unfamiliar scenes all along the way
God only knows how I've come to need him
As He carries me each step that I make today
And where the winding river flows God only knows lyrics copyright 2016 Scott Seabock